

“Pip’s business Acumen”

Business History

The second series of experiences happened during his 45-year business life which took him to Venezuela where he endeavored in the manufacture, import, and export business of machine parts. His business required the learning of 4 languages while traveling extensively throughout the world to serve the many relationships from varied cultures. Pip’s summation included the statement,

“Everywhere in the world I have been where something good has happened or is happening, God and Godly people have been leading. It is my desire to facilitate and place chaplain leaders in churches, governments and industries.”

Mr. Pippenger passed away in 2011

The Heart

It is the heart of this foundation to facilitate military chaplains so they may encourage military leadership to cherish the well-being of our soldiers, to lead with love and compassion, and to encourage soldiers that God and country support their sacrifice.

Our primary purpose, now and for the current future will be to serve military chaplains – our extended future is in God's hands. It will be our intent, as God leads, to be ever vigilant in recognizing opportunities to expand our Mission and fulfill our Vision.

Mission Statement

It is the mission of Church, State and Industry Foundation to:

To encourage seminarians to become Military Chaplain Candidates.

To financially recognize candidates who have stayed the course and are just now becoming fully commissioned Chaplains.

To encourage qualified civilian clergy to become newly accessioned Military Chaplains.

Vision Statement

It is the vision of Church, State and Industry Foundation to encourage virtuous intention by facilitating pure heart and conscience in the leadership of religious, government, diplomatic, military and industrial organizations by offering scholarship awards to seminary students who wish to enter chaplaincy serving those entities.

Combat History

Church, State and Industry Foundation is a product from the heart of James C. Pippenger and was founded as a result of his life experiences. The first of these experiences, "A Wing and a Prayer" happened while he was an aircraft commander of a B-24 in World War II. The crew of Silver Chief – 032 lived through the meaning of these words on December 25, 1944. After a bombing run into Germany, enemy anti-aircraft flak caused the plane to lose 2 engines forcing an emergency landing in Belgium. Even though the fuselage was riddled with holes, none of the ten crew members were injured. When "Pip" realized the miraculous nature of what had just happened, he said, "Gather under the wing boys, we're going to have a prayer".
